40.1 Discussion Pertaining to Change in Commission Structure

- Potential Joint Meeting with Parks and Recreation Commission

Department Director, Rich Rosenthal, addressed the Commission stating if the concept of changing from a Commission structure to a subcommittee structure under the Parks and Recreation Commission was one in which the Commission wished to further explore and discuss in further detail that it would involve the Parks and Recreation Commission and that the next joint meeting would be the fourth Tuesday in February on their normal meeting date. It would be possible to have a study session on the second Tuesday of the month. The Cemetery Commission is advisory to the Parks and Recreation Commission and to City Council, and the Cemetery Commission vote would be a potential recommendation to City Council and the Parks and Recreation Commission. The next step would be a joint meeting.

Chairman Forncrook stated the Commission would discuss the matter and decide how to proceed.

Director Rosenthal explained the structure would remain the same with being either a Commission or sub-committee structure in that the formality of the public meeting is a little lesser in terms of staff time.

Commissioner Hartmann expressed concern of becoming less visible as a sub-committee with respect to public notice, minutes, and to the cemetery receiving proper attention and that it would become easier and easier to not do the right thing as opposed to having a higher profile. She expressed the idea that it would make it easier for them to fail versus challenging them to succeed and that there is a reason for a formal commission that is not fulfilled by a subcommittee. Ms. Hartman expressed with the hard work that has taken place, she would not be persuaded to initiate the change.

Chairman Forncrook stated there is still a Parks and Recreation Commission that we would advise either way.

Director Rosenthal explained there is a management plan in place and that all requirements of running a cemetery would still be in place whether or not there is a separate Cemetery Commission. There is still the avenue for which the public can comment on any park, including this park which just so happens to be a cemetery, through the Parks and Recreation Commission. The question is does there need to be a Commission for this one park.

Chairman Forncrook stated they could end up having more clout with the Parks and Recreation Commission. He discussed methods of taking votes on the matter.

Commissioner Palacios stated it may be helpful to have a written proposal from Director Rosenthal explaining pros and cons to be weighed out.

Director Rosenthal stated there was no rush to decide. He also emphasized that the Cemetery Commission is on the Parks and Recreation Commission agenda monthly whether or not there is anything to report. Your ability to influence outcomes doesn't change. He doesn't believe every park should have a Commission.

Commissioner Hartmann asked if as a sub-committee there would be an archival record of the meeting with staff present to take notes to which Director Rosenthal answered affirmatively. Commissioner Hartman suggested this would cause minimal change in staff time needed.

Chairman Forncrook was pleased with number of applicants for Commission vacancy indicating more interest in the cemetery.

Karen also provided photo of new fence and foundation pad work done on lower section of cemetery for gentleman who purchased 16 spaces and described the obelisk that will be placed.

When asked if the Cemetery would get a maintenance person, Brian Robinson explained all of the park maintenance duty priorities with limited staffing. He indicated he would ask Director Rosenthal if there was any potential to get someone.

Commissioner Hartmann asked what the Commission could do to advocate for getting someone.

Brian Robinson explained Parks Maintenance would make sure the grounds are safe and accessible and that the mausoleum would be maintained. He discussed how Rogue X project would take a lot of resources.

Chairman Forncrook asked if there were further remarks from anyone.

Commissioner Hartmann asked what the Commission was intending to do about deciding on the sub-committee issue.

Commissioner Forncrook stated that if most of the Commission wants to keep things the same, we don't need to make more work for the Director to present a proposal.
